RAP & Funding Agency Functions: Developing RFAs for the grant offerings
RAP Functions: Marketing the call for applications - Electronic submission - Review
Funding Agency Functions: Selecting awardees - Post-award activities

What’s New:

- The Breakthrough Program in Rheumatoid Arthritis Research (BPRAR) now offered via the Pilots for Junior and Established Investigators
- Posey Family Pediatric Cancer Pilot Award offered for the first time through RAP
- The Program on Non-AIDS Defining Cancer, HIV and Aging offered again through RAP but with Independent Review
- The Global Cancer Pilot Award now open to trainees
- The Osher Center broadens the scope of the Integrative Palliative Care or Dementia Pilot Award
- Eligibility broaden to appointees in the Librarian Series when applicable
- CTSI-Pilot Awards is sponsoring Spring Cycles
- Digital Health Research continues to be offered via the Pilots for Junior and Established Investigators
- Digital Mental Health Award Track offered in Spring Cycles
- CAPS-HIV Innovative Grants is sponsoring this Spring Cycle
- Congratulations to the Fall 2017 Awardees. Here is a link to the Success Stories for Fall 2017 [1]

Fall 2017 Cycle Results
RAP reviewed 149 applications and made 54 awards for the Fall 2017 cycle; 36% of the grants reviewed were awarded. Thanks to the combined efforts of multiple funding agencies, a total of $2,449,721 was distributed to UCSF researchers. For more details, and to find out the names of the awardees and their success stories, go to "Resources [2]" on the RAP website.

The Fall 2017 Cycle Reviews are available on the RAP portal[3] on your dashboard.